

Bridging Toxic Links brings together IU community members from across our campus through music, dance, the spoken word, and images to engage intersectional injustices related to environmental problems and to discuss imagining and enacting a more environmentally, economically, and socially just present and future.

WHEN? Wednesday, March 2nd

WHERE? Woodburn Hall 100

TIME? 6:30-9pm

Live graphic artist and FREE FOOD!

Questions? Contact Kathleen de Onís (kdeonis@indiana.edu)

Thank you to our co-sponsors: Office of Student Diversity and Inclusion, School of Public Health – Black Graduate Student Association - La CASA - Graduate and Professional Student Government - Reinvest IU - Diversity in Action - College Democrats - First Nations Educational and Cultural Center - Asian Culture Center - Student Sustainability Council